This is great- which one would you prefer to use at the beginning of each interview. I can see the merits in both approaches but would want us to be consistent this week in how we approach witnesses.

Dale,

I'm forwarding an email that Adam sent to you and a few others in ECRCO about how to respond when witnesses ask about protection from disclosure. There are two suggested blurbs and Adam explained the difference between them. I don't know if you all decided how you wanted to handle those situations, but thought this might be useful to have on hand this week.

Thanks,
